Andrea Bianchi
Partner, lic. rer. pol., certified auditor and licensed audit expert

After successfully completing his business baccalaureate, Mr Bianchi studied economics at the University of Basel, graduating with a lic. rer. pol. degree in 1990.

He subsequently worked as an internal auditor at Sandoz International (now Novartis), where he conducted operational audits in the foreign group companies. In 1992, Mr Bianchi joined Experta Revision (now Deloitte) and qualified as a certified auditor. Until February 2013, he was an audit partner at Deloitte Basel, responsible for the regional SME market. From spring 2013 to autumn 2018, he was a partner and Head of Advisory Services at a medium-sized trustee company operating in an international environment. Mr Bianchi has acquired many years of solid, proven experience as an auditor and consultant to companies of all sizes across the entire spectrum of sectors. Thanks to his long professional career, he has a very strong international background and is well networked in the Northwestern Switzerland region.

He has been a partner and CEO of Testaris Ltd since October 2018.
